INTRODUCTION

The State of Wisconsin has traditionally shared a large part of its revenue with counties, municipalities, school districts, and other local governments.

A provision of the State Constitution (currently Article X, Section 2) directed that the interest earned on the "School Fund", which included the sales proceeds from land granted to the state for school purposes plus certain fines and forfeitures, be used exclusively for the support and maintenance of common schools and the purchase of suitable libraries. In response, the Legislature passed a law (Chapter 20, Laws of 1849) which provided that the interest earnings be distributed to those governmental units operating schools based on the number of pupils in attendance.

In its first decades, both the state and its local governments relied on property taxes for most of their revenue needs. However, as the portion of the state's economy from urban and non-agricultural grew, problems concerning the fairness and adequacy of the property tax also grew.

In response, in November 1908, state voters approved an amendment to the State Constitution which permitted the state to impose a state income tax using graduated tax rates. The law implementing the state income tax was enacted in 1911. In addition to imposing an income tax, the law did two other things: (1) exempted intangibles (primarily money, stocks, and bonds) and personal possessions (primarily jewelry and household furniture) from property taxes, and (2) directed that 70% be returned to municipality from which collected and 20% be returned to the county where collected, to compensate for the loss in property taxes.

This sharing of the income tax with local governments set a precedent which was followed in subsequent years as other state taxes and fees were enacted. For example, in 1931, the Legislature enacted a law which imposed a state license fee on motor vehicles, exempted licensed vehicles from property taxes, and directed that 20% of the fees be returned to the municipality where the vehicle was normally kept.

Although state law no longer specifies how much of the various state taxes and fees are to be shared with local governments, the practice of using state taxes and fees to fund payments to local governments continues. While property tax relief is often cited as a primary reason for such payments, the various state aid payments are intended to meet several goals, such as:

(1) Cost sharing – Many of the state's human service programs are administered by county governments, as are circuit courts and related legal services. Highways, mass transit, and other transportation services are provided by counties and municipalities. The state aids for these services are often set at some percentage of costs, or some flat rate per unit (such as highway miles). In addition, there are grant programs under which the state makes discretionary payments to local governments to help pay for certain capital improvements.

(2) Direct tax relief – Some state aid is in the form of credits that appear directly on property tax bills. The two biggest examples are the school levies credit and the lottery and gaming credit.

(3) Equalization: state aid is intended to permit local government to provide for similar levels of service (as measured by per pupil or per capita expenditures) at tax rates as nearly equal as possible. The largest such program is the school equalization program. At one time, most of the state shared revenue payment was also distributed on an equalization formula basis (and, despite payments being frozen for several years, arguably are still so disbributed.)

In relation to total state aids, the percentage breakdown is roughly as follows: 25% cost sharing, 10% direct tax relief, and 65% equalization.

For purposes of this analysis, state revenues include most general fund taxes and segregated fund revenues such as transportation fund licenses and taxes, conservation fund license and user fees, and net lottery proceeds. The data generally reflect collections for the 2006/07 and 2007/08 fiscal years as reported in the "Annual Fiscal Report: Budgetary Basis" prepared by the Department of Administration (DOA). Revenue data are generally available only on a state total basis. The methods used to allocate state revenues to municipalities attempt to measure the taxes paid by residents and businesses located in that municipality. Since there is no definitive way to allocate revenues, the allocations should be viewed as approximations of the actual taxes paid.

Data on state aids are based on information in the "State Payments Register" maintained by the Department of Revenue (DOR). The register includes data on most state aid payments to local governmental units (counties, municipalities, school districts, technical college districts, metropolitan sewerage districts, town sanitary districts, and lake districts). Federal aids are excluded when identifiable as federal funds. Aids to individuals and non-government organizations are also excluded since they are not paid to local governmental units.

This report provides estimates of state revenues and state aid payments by county and municipality for 2007. The report shows that 63.43% of state revenues were returned to local governments in 2007. After allocating county, school district, technical college, and special district aids to the municipal level, the percentage of state revenues returned as state aid payments was 74.01% for towns, 51.93% for villages, and 61.46% for cities.

The estimated ratio of state aid to state revenue for each municipality reflects a combination of both unique factors and overall tax capacity. For individual municipalities (excluding certain low population and/or low value pieces of multi-county villages and cities), the highest percentages were for the Town of Foster in Clark County (385.95%) and the Town of Dewhurst in Clark County (374.90%), and the lowest percentages were for the City of Pewaukee in Waukesha County (15.09%) and the City of Mequon in Ozaukee County (14.13%). For individual counties, the highest percentages were for Menominee (268.15%) and Rusk (131.08%), and the lowest percentages were for Ozaukee (29.28%) and Waukesha (28.86%).

The report was prepared by Daniel P. Huegel, Division of Research and Policy. Questions about this report may be directed to him at (608) 266-5705 or by e-mail at: Daniel.Huegel@revenue.wi.gov

GENERAL INFORMATION

Some villages and cities are located in two or more counties. These localities are indicated by an asterisk (*) in the tables. The allocation of state aid to each piece depends on the method used to calculate the aid payments.

When a new municipality or a new "county piece" is created, revenues and aids are not allocated to the new entity until the year property taxes are first payable (generally the year after the entity is created). Until then, revenues and aids are allocated to the entity from which the new entity was formed.

When a municipality ceases to exist, allocation of revenues and aids ceases in the year after the entity ceases to exist (generally the first year no equalized value is calculated for the entity).

2007 Population
This is the population as of January 1, 2007 as estimated by the Demographic Services Center in the DOA.

2007 Full Value per Capita
This is the full value of all taxable property (including value increments in tax incremental financing districts) as of January 1, 2007 as determined by DOR's Bureau of Equalization, Division of State and Local Finance, divided by the 2007 population.

2007 WAGI per Tax Return
Wisconsin adjusted gross income (WAGI) equals income after business expenses and before the standard deduction, as reported on individual income tax returns for tax year 2007. WAGI per tax return equals the total WAGI divided by the number of tax returns in that municipality.

For municipalities in two or more counties, the figure represents data for the specific "county piece".

STATE REVENUE COLLECTOINS

Attributed Individual Income Taxes
This is an estimate of the amount of individual income taxes paid by residents in the municipality. The estimate is based on an analysis of tax returns for tax year 2007 on which a valid municipality of residence was reported.

Taxpayers commonly report their "post office" village or city as their municipality of residence. As a result, the "tax population" (total count of filers plus dependents), and the income tax payments, for many villages and cities is considerably overstated. The following procedure was used to adjust for this misreporting:

The procedure is based on two assumptions: (1) the county of residence is reported correctly, and (2) the average income per tax return is a reasonable estimate of income levels in the municipality.

Step 1: The "local/county income ratio" was calculated as follows:

$$\frac{\text{Municipal income per tax return}}{\text{County income per tax return}}$$

Step 2: An "income-weighted population" was calculated by multiplying the municipality's estimated population by its "local/county income ratio".

Step 3: The total WAGI for the county was allocated to each municipality based on the percentage of the county "income-weighted population" located in the municipality. This is the estimated WAGI for the municipality.

Step 4: The income tax paid by residents in the municipality was estimated by multiplying its estimated WAGI by the average income tax rate for the county.

The following table demonstrates how this procedure affects the income taxes allocated to individual municipalities.

| Item | City of Schofield (Marathon County) | Village of Marathon (Marathon County) |
|---|---|---|
| 2007 Population | 2,264 | 1,609 |
| Number of tax returns for 2006 | 3,259 | 192 |
| State income tax as reported | $ 5,188,133 | $ 302,456 |
| State income tax as adjusted | $ 1,848,992 | $ 1,315,484 |

As the example shows, this procedure reallocates income taxes so that taxes for municipalities with too many tax returns relative to population (like Schofield) are reduced while taxes for municipalities with too few tax returns relative to population (like Marathon) are increased.

Corporate Franchise and Income Taxes
This is the amount of corporate franchise and income tax collected in 2007 allocated to each municipality as follows:
1) 25% on the basis of 2007 population,
2) 40% on the basis of the 2007 full value of commercial real and personal property, and;
3) 35% on the basis of the 2007 full value of manufacturing real and personal property.

Sales and Use Taxes
This is the amount of net sales and use taxes collected in 2007 allocated to each municipality as follows:
1) 35% on the basis of 2007 population,
2) 35% of the basis of 2007 attributed WAGI,
3) 30% on the basis of the 2007 full value of commercial and manufacturing real and personal property.

WARNING: This is an estimate of the sales and use taxes paid by residents and businesses in the municipality, regardless of where the business transaction on which the tax was imposed took place. The data are NOT an estimate of the sales and use taxes collected at business enterprises located in the municipality.

Excise Taxes
This is the amount of excise tax collections in 2007 on cigarettes, tobacco products, beer, liquor, and wine allocated to each municipality on the basis of 2007 population.

Utility Taxes
This is the amount of utility tax collections in 2007, as reported by the DOR's Bureau of Utility Taxes. from private and municipal light, heat, and power companies; telecommunications companies; pipelines; rural electric cooperatives; municipal electric association projects; and conservation and regulation companies. These revenues are allocated to each municipality as follows:
1) 50% on the basis of 2007 population, and
2) 50% on the basis of 2007 full value of commercial and manufacturing real and personal property.

Net Lottery Proceeds
This is the amount of net operating income (gross sales less prizes, program expenses, and administrative expenses) as reported in the state's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (GAAP-basis). This amount is allocated to each municipality on the basis of 2007 population.

Transportation Fund Revenues
This represents collections from motor vehicle registration fees, driver license fees, motor carrier fees, motor fuel taxes, railroad and airline property taxes, and other transportation-related revenues. These revenues are allocated to municipalities on the basis of 2007 population.

Conservation Fund Revenues
Collections from fishing and hunting licenses; state park, forest admission, and recreational fees; and registration fees for all terrain vehicles, snowmobiles, and boats were allocated to municipalities on the basis of 2007 population. The state forestation property tax and the per acre closure fee for land in the Managed Forest Land program were allocated to the municipality in which the tax or fee was levied, as reported to DOR on municipal Statement of Taxes.

Other Revenues
Collections from gift and inheritance taxes, petroleum inspection fees, race-tracks admission taxes, recycling fees, and insurance premium taxes, and fire dues (the tax on fire insurance premiums) were allocated to each municipality as follows:
1) 50% on the basis of 2007 population, and
2) 50% on the basis of 2007 full value.

The state's share of the real estate transfer fee is from data for 2007 as reported by DOR's Bureau of Utility Taxes. The data were first allocated to the county from which the fee was collected, and then allocated to each municipality based on 2007 full value (including tax incremental values).

The state share of occupation taxes (collected through the property tax system) in 2007 was allocated to the municipality where the tax was levied, as reported to DOR on municipal Statements of Taxes.

Total State Revenues
This is the sum of the preceding nine columns.

PROPERTY TAXES

Gross Property Tax Levy
This is the total 2006/07 general property tax levy before tax credits.

STATE AIDS

Shared Revenue
This is the amount paid to each municipality in 2007 from the shared revenue appropriations. Payments in 2007 included two utility shared revenue payments, a "county and municipal aid" payment, and an expenditure restraint payment. Shared revenue payments that were paid by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHFS) and called "prepaid medical transportation reimbursements" are not included here (but are included under miscellaneous aid). For municipalities in two or more counties, payments were allocated to each "county piece" as property taxes were allocated (based on the 2006 equalized value excluding value increments in TIF districts).

School Levies Credit
This is the school levies credit paid to each municipality in 2007 to reduce 2006/07 property taxes. For municipalities located in two or more counties, the amount is the actual payment for that piece.

Lottery Credit
This is the lottery credit paid in 2007 to reduce 2006/07 property taxes. The credit equaled the school levies on the first $11,600 in full value of primary residences, including mobile homes on which the monthly parking fee is paid in-lieu of property taxes. For municipalities in two or more counties, the lottery credit is the actual payment for that piece.

Natural Resources Aids
This is the amount paid by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to each municipality in 2007. A partial list of the aids includes: per acre, severance and yield taxes, withdrawal fees, and penalties related to lands in the Forest Crop, Managed Forest, and County Forest programs; aids in-lieu of taxes on DNR-owned land; boating enforcement and projects; brownfield projects; fire suppression; lake management; non-point source pollution programs; recycling programs; river protection; Stewardship 2000 projects; urban forests; and wildlife abatement and control. If a municipality is required to share the payment with other governments (such as aids in-lieu of taxes), the aid is allocated to the municipality that received the initial payment. Payments to special districts and entities were allocated to underlying municipalities based on the 2006 full value excluding value increments in TIF districts. For municipalities in two or more counties, payments were allocated to each "county piece" as property taxes were allocated (based on 2006 equalized value excluding value increments in TIF districts).

Transportation Aids
This is the amount paid to each municipality in 2007. A partial list of these aids includes: general (formula) aid, bicycle and pedestrian paths, connecting highways, flood damage, harbor assistance, lift bridges, mass transit, and special grants for local road improvements. For municipalities in two or more counties, payments were allocated to each "county piece" as property taxes were allocated (based on the 2006 equalized value excluding value increments in TIF districts).

Miscellaneous Aids
This is the sum of amounts paid to each municipality in 2007 from the following departments and programs (a partial list):
1) Administration: housing weatherization grants, justice assistance (drug law enforcement, aid to non-profit organizations, patrol officers, and recording equipment), Land Information Board grants, Public Benefits Fund grants, transmission line impact and annual fees, payments for services to state-owned facilities, and transportation planning grants.
2) Commerce: brownfield grants, fire insurance dues, housing assistance grants, and petroleum storage environmental program grants.
3) Election Board: grants for the purchase of equipment to assist voters unable to use conventional ballots
4) Health and Family Services: ambulance funding assistance, aids for general health and family service programs, and "prepaid medical transportation reimbursements".
5) Justice: law enforcement training and victim assistance
5) Military Affairs: emergency government planning, disaster recovery, and hazardous materials handling and equipment grants.

6) Public Instruction: public library construction grants
7) Tourism: payments in-lieu of taxes for land in the Kickapoo Valley Reserve
8) Revenue: exempt computer aids, and "terminal" payments for oil pipeline terminals and for railroad docks and railroad repair facilities.

On the above, payments to special districts and payments for municipalities in two or more counties were allocated to each municipality or "county piece" as property taxes were allocated (based on the 2006 equalized value excluding value increments in TIF districts).

School Aids
This amount reflects aid allocations for each municipality reflecting state aids paid in calendar 2007 to cooperative education service agencies (CESA), technical college districts, and elementary and secondary school districts. Among the aid payments included in the analysis are:
1) CESA: general aid for CESA operations and the other education programs carried out by CESAs.
2) Technical colleges: general equalization aid, plus all other state aids (such as college parallel programs, faculty development, health care education, minority student retention, and exempt computer aid.
3) Elementary and Secondary schools: General aid (equalization aid, inter-district and intra-district integration aids, and special adjustment aid), alcohol and drug abuse prevention, bilingual and bicultural programs, children-at-risk programs, children with disabilities programs, nutrition-related programs, professional development, pupil transportation, SAGE programs, school libraries, telecommunications access grants, and exempt computer aids.

Aid payments were allocated to municipalities as property taxes were allocated (based on 2006 equalized value excluding value increments in TIF districts). For municipalities in two or more counties, aids were calculated for each piece separately.

County Aids
This amount reflects the municipality's share of state aids paid to counties. County aids were allocated to municipalities on the same basis as 2006/07 county property taxes – that is, based on 2006 full value excluding value increments in TIF districts. For municipalities in two or more counties, aids were calculated separately for each piece. A detailed list of county aids is provided in the appendix.

Total State Aids
This is the sum of the preceding eight columns.

State Aids as a % of State Revenues
This is the total state aids divided by the total state revenues.

Gross Property Tax Rate (mills)
This is the 2006/07 gross property tax levy (the tax for all purposes, including TIF incremental tax levies) divided by the 2006 equalized value including value increments in tax increment districts.

State Aids (in mills on Full Value)
This is the total of all state aid payments paid in 2007 divided by the 2006 equalized value excluding tax increments. It represents the property tax relief effect of state aids in relation to the property tax base for 2006/07 property taxes.
