Deadlines approaching for tax return extensions

MADISON – The extension deadline for filing 2007 individual income tax and certain corporation franchise and income tax returns is Wednesday, October 15, 2008. Individuals and corporations with federal or state extensions should file these returns by the deadline to avoid penalty.

Most individual and corporation returns may be electronically filed. E-filing is the most secure, accurate and convenient way to file. With e-filing, refunds are available via direct deposit within 5-7 business days, and taxpayers receive confirmation that returns have been received. When tax is due, payments may be made using electronic funds transfer.
