¹ Prior to March 6, 2009, "computer programs other than custom computer programs" are tangible personal property for Wisconsin sales and use tax purposes.

² Prior to March 6, 2009, sec. Tax 11.71(1)(e), Wis. Adm. Code (April 1993 Register), applies to determine whether a computer program is a custom program.

⁴ Beginning March 6, 2009, "prewritten computer software," as defined in sec. 77.51(10r), Wis. Stats., as created by 2009 Wis. Act 2, is tangible personal property for sales and use tax purposes.

⁵ The tax treatment indicated is limited to modifications or enhancements that consist of writing program code to enable software to perform functions not available in the existing prewritten computer software. Examples of services that are not considered modifications or enhancements for purposes of this chart include reconfiguration of start-up information, reinstallation of functions inadvertently deleted, and adding new program code to repair existing functions.

⁶ When a software maintenance contract for taxable computer software includes both taxable and nontaxable products or services, the following applies:
Maintenance contracts for taxable computer software or taxable computer programs - Contract sold prior to October 1, 2009 - If the contract includes taxable and nontaxable products or services, the entire charge for the contract is taxable unless it is determined by the department that another method, such as allocation or primary purpose, more accurately reflects the tax.

Maintenance contracts for taxable computer software or taxable computer programs - Contract sold October 1, 2009 and thereafter - If the contract includes taxable and nontaxable products or services, the entire sales price for the contract is taxable unless, at the retailer's option, the retailer can identify by reasonable and verifiable standards from the retailer's books and records that are kept in the ordinary course of its business for other purposes, including purposes unrelated to taxes, the portion of the price that is attributable to products or services that are not subject to the tax. That portion of the sales price is not taxable.

⁷ This applies only in the case where the maintenance contract covers only the modifications or enhancements. If the maintenance contract covers both the prewritten software and the modifications or enhancements, see Footnote 6.
